

National Implementation Plan for European Youth Guarantee (NIPEYG) 2014 – 2020

(Updated in April 2014)

1. Rationale

The steady economic growth and high investment activity in a pre-crisis period have led to a significant increase in the number of employed persons in the country, and a decline in the unemployment rate to a record low level of 5.6%¹ in 2008. Despite the improvement in the key labour market indicators, during the pre-crisis period the level of unemployment rate in the age group 15-24 exceeded significantly the average value of unemployment rate for the population aged 15 and over, reaching 12.7%. Due to the economic crisis and the subsequent slow economic recovery the employment started to decline which have led to a significant increase in unemployment including among youth. The unemployment rate rose to 12.9% in 2013, and among the hardest hit by the crisis groups were those aged 25-34 and 35-44, in which the unemployment rate was 28.4% and 15.3%, respectively.

¹ Annual data from Labour Force Survey, conducted by National Statistical Institute

In 2013 the number of unemployed in the age group 15-24 reached 65.1 thousand and decreased by 6.6% over the previous year. Despite the improvement observed in the period under consideration the level of youth unemployment rate in Bulgaria was significantly higher compared to the reported average level for the EU-282 (28.4% against 23.3%). According to Eurostat data, the share of youth in the respective age group neither in employment nor in education and training amounted to 21.6% and remains among the highest compared to other Member States, higher by 8.1 pp than the average EU level.

Youth unemployment by planning regions³ shows that the unemployment rate in the respective age group exceeds the average unemployment rate (15+) in five of the six statistical regions. In 2012, the highest rate of youth unemployment was reported in the North-East region (36.1%) and the lowest in the South-West region (17.3%).

Young people aged 15-29 are a target group in the context of the employment promotion policy in accordance with national legislation. In 2013, the average number of persons in this group amounted to 128.9 thousand and remained unchanged from the previous year, while the unemployment rate rose by 1 pp to 21.8%.

According to the administrative statistics of the Employment Agency (EA) the number of unemployed young people registered in labour offices increased significantly from 2008 to 2012. During the analysed period unemployed aged up to 29 have increased by 76.6 percent, while those aged up to 24 (incl.), have increased by 79.5%. In 2013 the development of youth unemployment was considerably more favourable. The number of unemployed young people under 29 was 74.7 thousand, or 1.5% lower than in 2012, while the number of unemployed people aged up to 24 was 35.5 thousand and remained almost unchanged from the previous year. The relative shares of the two groups in the total number of unemployed also decreased, reaching 20.1% and 9.5%, respectively.

Fig. 4: Number of unemployed young people registered at labour offices

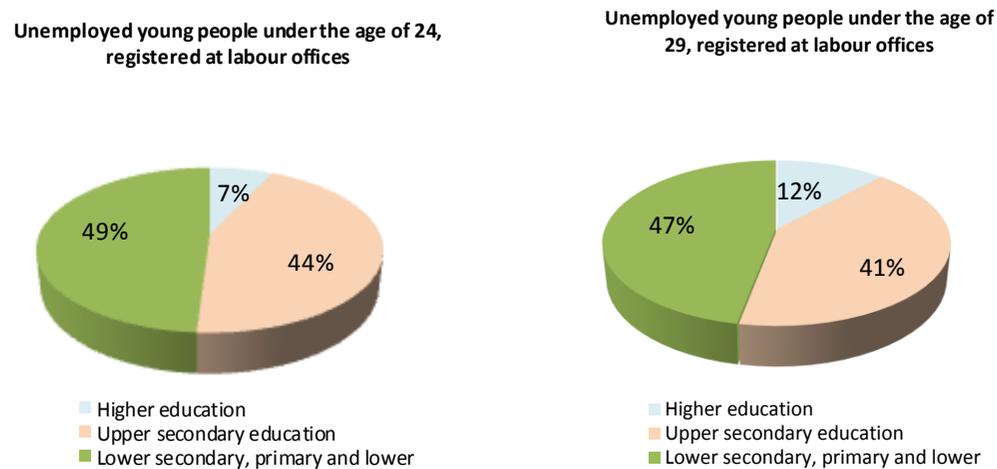

Source: EA

The average monthly number of unemployed young people registered at labour offices up to four months has decreased. In 2013 the number of unemployed persons aged up to 29 with registration to four months fell by 5.9% compared to the previous year, and in the age group up to the age of 24 a decrease of 8.9% was reported. The number of long-term unemployed young people for more than one year has slightly increased. During the analysed period the number of long-term unemployed young people up to 29 rose by 1.9%, while the number of long-term unemployed young people up to 24 rose by 1.3%.

In the total number of the unemployed aged up to 29, the share of those registered at the labour offices up to four months was 26.5%, and the share of long-term unemployed reached 13.6%. In the age group up to 24 the considered shares were lower and amounted to 13.4% and 5.6%, respectively.

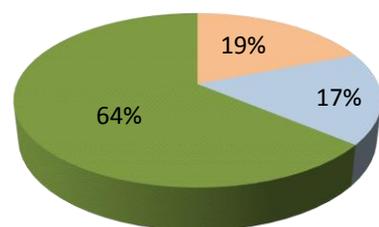

Low educational attainment and lack of qualifications are among the key factors determining the high level of youth unemployment in the country. The low level of education and the lack of skills, needed in the labour market, make young people uncompetitive, given that employers exempt mostly unskilled labour force under conditions of uncertain economic environment. In 2013 in the educational structure of unemployed up to 29 years a major share had persons with lower secondary and lower education (46.6%) and upper secondary education (41.4%) including secondary vocational (26.6%), while the share of unemployed young graduates was significantly lower (12%). Similar trends were observed in the number of unemployed persons up to 24. In 2013 in the educational structure of the unemployed up to 24 those with lower secondary and lower education comprised 48.6% of the total number of young people in this group, followed by those with upper secondary (44.4%) including secondary vocational (28.2%) and higher education (7%).

The occupational structure of unemployed youth showed a leading share of those without qualification as in 2013 the value of this indicator for the unemployed up to 29 years was 61%, and for those up to 24 reached 64%.

In addition to the structural factors, among the reasons for youth unemployment and inactivity are also the lack of professional and/or work experience, the lack of key skills and work habits, early school leaving as well as loss of work motivation due to the prolonged stay without work.

Observed improvement in 2013 was mainly related to the implementation of the National Initiative "Jobs for Young People in Bulgaria" 2012-2013, that includes mutually complementary measures which have engaged all stakeholders including state institutions, social partners and communities. The Initiative has launched active labour market measures for creation of qualitative jobs and sustainable employment opportunities, measures aimed at increasing employability, that take into account the future labour market developments, information and counselling services which implementation will continue in the frameworks of this plan.

2. Implementation of the scheme for Youth Guarantee at national level

2.1 National Youth Guarantee of the Republic of Bulgaria, in accordance with Recommendation of the Council of EU of 22 April 2013

The National Youth Guarantee of Bulgaria provides that any young person aged 15 to 24 years inclusive will receive a good quality⁴ of job offer, further education, traineeship or apprenticeship within 4 months after they become unemployed or leave the formal education system.

For young people registered in labour offices, a proposal will be conveyed up to the end of the 4th month of their registration.

Every unemployed young person registered in labour offices will be developed and provided with individual action plan and their profile will be determined in it. According to this profile, the young person will be proposed with a good quality job offer (subsidized or at the primary labour market) or a training (training for acquisition of vocational qualification, for acquisition of key competencies, for continuation of education). During the individual work with each young person as a tool for employability improvement and support for personal choice making, career guidance and job search training will also be provided.

The National Youth Guarantee of Bulgaria will be implemented in stages. In 2014, a priority will be the funding of training and employment of young people up to 25 years with primary or lower education (early school leavers) whose registration in labour offices is with duration of up to 4 months incl. For young people with higher and secondary education and with duration of registration in labour office of up to 4 months incl., the start of a first job (traineeship) will be funded. Vocational training will be proposed to young people with upper secondary educational degree.

Young people not in employment or education, and not registered in labour offices will be informed about the potential services that can be used after registration at the labour offices, within one month of receipt of their individual data and correspondence address with the institution or organization that will carry out their activation. This makes possible several "paths" for the activation and integration of youth on the labour market, according to their individual profile and discretion: (1) directing them to local schools and/or to REI in order to return to the education system; (2) directing them to the local Labour office for registration and use of services provided there for employment, traineeship, apprenticeships and training; (3) directing them to organized job fairs, local cooperation associations, educational fairs and other informal forms of support for job search or enrollment in training; (4) directing them to private employment agencies and temporary employment enterprises as possibilities for realization on the labour market without the mediation of public Employment Agency and the use of information technology to search for vacancies and to prepare the application documents and on-line application.

For inactive youth – not studying, not working and without registration in labour offices, activities are provided that will be implemented with partnership approach. In order to identify and establish contact with inactive young people, information from the Ministry of Education and Science will be used regarding those not registered for next educational degree or next class of secondary education and also data from the civil registration services of municipal administrations for their addresses. In 2014, labour intermediaries from the labour offices will inform each of these young people about the employment mediation services provided by the labour office and after 2014 information will be also provided by other organizations. Labor intermediaries, incl. Roma mediators, working in labor offices will focus their activities on youths from Roma minority. Collaboration with NGOs working in the field of Roma integration will be developed, which could be useful for contact and mediation with the Roma community.

⁴ In terms of the insufficient supply of vacancies, quality job offer will meet as many of the following criteria: to be consistent with the education / training of the young person, to be suitable for his/her health, to be tailored to the individual profile of the young person, to offers permanent employment, to meet the requirements for health and safety at work, to create conditions for individual development. Quality proposal for youths from 15 to 18 years of age will be associated primarily with their return to education and involvement in continuing education and training and apprenticeship. Quality training proposal will meet as many of the following criteria: to be consistent with the profile and attitudes of the young person, to respond to the labour market's demand and to be tied to a particular job place.

The implementation of the National Youth Guarantee will be launched in 2014 with measures and programs funded by the state budget. The launch of schemes aimed at young people and funded by the ESF, incl. in accordance with the Youth Employment Initiative, is planned to start in 2014. By 2020, activities will be financed by the state budget and with EU funds in accordance with the national action plans for employment for the respective year. The implementation of NIPEYG in the South-West region is not generally funded by the Youth Employment Initiative but mainly by the state budget. It is possible 10% of the funding for the Youth Guarantee, according to the Youth Employment Initiative, to be used to fund regions at a lower level than NUTS 2 level within the ineligible South-West region.

As a result of the implementation of the National Plan for the implementation of the European Youth Guarantee 2014 – 2020, by the end of 2015 the following outcomes are expected to be achieved:

- Reduce the level of youth unemployment (15-24) to 27.2 %.
- Reduce the proportion of young people aged 15-24 who are not in employment, education or training in the total number of young people in the same age range (NEET rate) to 20.5%.
- Increasing the share of registered unemployed youth (aged 15-24) who are involved in training or employment by the total number of registered unemployed youth to 50%.

2.2 Partner approach⁵

For successful and effective implementation of the National Plan, the work will be done in partnership between the institutions and organizations listed in Table 2.2 in the Plan.

The National plan will be implemented by the relevant government institutions, social partners, local authorities, youth organizations. Coordination Council will coordinate and monitor the implementation of the Plan. The Council will be headed by the Minister of Labour and Social Policy who will determine its nominal composition. The composition of the council will include representatives of ministries, nationally representative organizations of workers and employees, representative organizations of employers, youth organizations and the National Association of Municipalities in Republic of Bulgaria. Within one month of the constitution of the Coordination Council, it will adopt its rules of procedure which will determine the order of the Council's work. The directors of "Regional Labour Offices" and "Labour Offices" Directorates will be responsible for the coordination of the implementation of the NIPEYG on regional and local level.

For implementation of the activities under the NIPEYG, a national framework agreement will be signed between the Ministry of Labour and Social Policy, the Ministry of Education and Science, the Ministry of Youth and Sports, the National Association of Municipalities in the Republic of Bulgaria, nationally representative organizations of employers, workers and employees and young people and other responsible organizations. The agreement will define the responsibilities and commitments of the specified organizations/institution, incl. to identify and activate young people who are not in employment or education and not registered in the labour offices, including those who have never studied. The key commitments will include:

- conduction of an information campaign to promote the purposes and the essence of the National Youth Guarantee in the context of the European Youth Guarantee; distribution of materials, brochures, information through the media, websites, social networks, etc.
- provision of information from MES to MLSP on young people who are dropouts and early school leavers;
- support from NAMRB through local authorities to identify young people who dropped out of the education system as well as those who never attended school;
- with the active participation of the Ministry of Youth and Sports, active nongovernmental organizations that implement youth activities and services in the country will be identified in order to help identifying young people who are neither in employment nor in education or training. Organizations will take action to activate them for their registration in labour offices, including through services by residence delivered by youth workers (active dialogue with each young person by providing information and individual consultation, implementation of group seminars for attitude change and social inclusion). Together with the partners, specific methodology for operation within the partnership network will be developed, to identify and activate young people taking into account the specifics of working with diverse groups of disadvantaged young people who are neither in employment nor in education and not registered in the labour offices, and that complies with the European standards for youth work. Youth workers (mediators) will be trained on the basis of this methodology;

⁵ NIPEYG was developed by a working group, whose members included representatives from: ministries (MLSP , MES, MYS, Ministry of Economy and Energy, Ministry of Regional Development , Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Ministry of Transport and Communications), nationally representative organizations of employers and trade unions and NGOs. In connection with the Council of Ministers' approval of the NIPEYG, it was approved by the National Employment Promotion Council and the National Council for Tripartite Cooperation (tripartite consultative bodies) as well as from all ministries.

- making contact with the identified youth, provision of information on the possible services in labour offices. In 2014, the work with the identified young people will start as it would be done by the case managers in the labour offices and by labour intermediaries appointed to work with young people. With the development of the methodology for operation of the partnership network, these activities can be carried out both by YICC (administered by the “European Youth Programmes and Initiatives” National Centre within the subprogram 1 of the National Youth Programme), local organizations of nationally representative organizations of employers and workers and employees and by youth organizations. Specific aspect of this activity will be the personal contact with young people and the approach according to which representatives of the institutions/organizations go to the young person;

- the actions for activation of young people will be directed to their integration into employment, traineeship, apprenticeship or training. Labor intermediaries will provide information on mediation services in employment, organized and provided by labor offices to young people who are not in employment, education or training (according to Art. 21a of the Rules for implementation of the EPA). For young people from 15 to 17 incl., efforts will be directed, according to their individual profile, to their return to the education system, incl. literacy training.

The actions for integration in the labour market aimed at unemployed young people registered in labour offices will be carried out by the MLSP through EA. EA will collect and compile data on the work with the registered unemployed young people up to 24 incl. and up to 29 years. The data will provide information on all actions (services, programs and measures) performed by EA as well as those implemented by the social partners in the context of the annual NAPE. EA will collect and compile data on registered unemployed youths in labour offices depending on the duration of their registration, their educational and professional structure, up to 24 incl. and up to 29 years.

The Employment Agency is the institution that collaborates with partner organizations for the activities on activation and independently makes contact with young people about their registration in labour offices and the use of opportunities for training and work. Crucial in this process is the active work of Labor intermediaries, Roma mediators, psychologists and case managers with young people and the contact with employers for provision of jobs and the constant exchange of information between them and young people. In the implementation of measures for integration in the labour market, the Employment Agency will work purposefully for the implementation of the National Guarantee, namely – to finance with priority in 2014 the training and employment of young people up to 24 incl. with primary or lower education (early school leavers) whose registration in employment offices is up to 4 months incl. For young people with higher and secondary education and with duration of registration in labour office up to 4 months incl., the start of a first job (traineeship) will be financed. Instructions for work with young people will be contained in the methodology for the operation within the partnership network. Labour intermediaries, Roma mediators, psychologists, case managers and other employees in the labour offices who work with clients, comply their activity with the methodological guide "Provision of specialized individual counseling aimed at solving specific problems of young people up to 29 years registered in the "Labour Office" directorates” when working with youth, including youths with disabilities and youths from ethnic minorities such as Roma young people. The Executive Director of the Employment Agency will provide guidance for the implementation of the National Guarantee by the territorial divisions.

The organizing and implementing a comprehensive policy on informing the young people in relation with the choice of vocation, career development, needs of the labour market, is of utmost importance and shall be carried out as early as possible, before the young people leave the educational system. All young people shall receive information, vocational guidance and consulting in the year preceding the graduation. Measures for early professional orientation and guidance of youths towards the profession of the teacher will be used, which corresponds with the National strategy for development of the pedagogical staff (2014 – 2020).

Building of an early warning system on young people with high risk of dropping out of the formal education system will provide possibilities to start individual work with them in the form of consultations, support (including psychological support), working with parents, individual guidance. Coaching will have a major role in the process – both individual and group.

New forms of education as distance and blended forms will be introduced to retain the young people in the education system. Thus the education process will become more flexible and it will provide possibilities for individual pathways for education. A new option for acquisition of vocational qualification will be introduced in the education system by introducing dual training – combining work-based vocational training in an enterprise and theoretical training in an educational institution.

Providing an opportunity for early school leavers to return to the formal system of education and training through various forms of training – distance training, evening classes, part-time training, correspondence form of training; the participation of early school leavers in literacy courses contributes for their social integration and inclusion in the labour market; promotion of learning opportunities in clubs, libraries, community centers.

Statutory forms of education different from the day training encourage young people from risk groups to complete their education. Such forms are evening classes, part-time training, individual, private and correspondence forms of training. Will also be used the opportunity provided by the changes made in the Education Act in 2013, which introduced the combined form of education for persons with special educational needs. Change contributes to continuing their education and training in the public education system.

The establishment of a national system for validation of knowledge, skills and competences acquired through informal and/or non-formal learning shall provide an opportunity and increase the motivation of young people to use a variety of options to study, maintain and improve their vocational qualification. Furthermore the validation shall provide the opportunity to young people to also return to the educational system in order to continue their education, as well as it shall give them access to training for acquisition of a vocational qualification. The validation shall facilitate labour mobility both within the country and in the EU.

Twice a year, the MES shall provide information to MLSP for young people who have completed a certain level of education and have not been enrolled into the upper one, as well as for these who have not been enrolled into the next grade without completing the respective level of education. Using this information, part of the young people who have left the educational system early shall be identified, as well as these who have acquired an educational level but are not active at the labour market. Municipalities, labour offices, local youth organizations shall elaborate action plans for identifying these young people and informing them about the National Guarantee. Each institution or organization shall commit itself to informing a certain young people group in order to reach each and every one of them. The informed young people shall be encouraged to visit the respective labour office where the labour intermediaries shall inform them about employment services organized and provided by the labour offices. There shall be at least one labour intermediary in each labour office who shall be an expert specifically in working with young people. After registering into the labour office, the labour intermediary shall begin individual work for activating the young person. They shall assist the other labour intermediaries in their work with unemployed young people.

Action Plan for the National Strategy for Lifelong Learning 2014 - 2020 was approved by the Council of Ministers in early April 2014.

A draft Concept for the development of vocational education and training in Bulgaria is also elaborated with deadline for acceptance in August 2014, which is currently being discussed. In this regard, major priority areas are proposed aimed at reforming vocational education and linking it to the needs of the labour market: ensuring quality and efficiency; improve opportunities for access to vocational education and training; introduction of learning through work / dual training; vocational education and training in the context of lifelong learning and strengthening the participation and responsibilities of all stakeholders to provide staff with the necessary skills for the economy.

Informed young people will be encouraged to choose from the following possible "paths" of activation for further integration in the labour market:

- (1) Return to education: in the information provided according to the individual profile of the young people, early school dropouts from the formal education system will be directed to local schools and/or REI - local institutions to assist youths individually for inclusion in education system. This "path" will primarily focus on young people aged 15-18 years with primary or lower education.
- (2) Registration at Labour Office Directorate, where labour intermediaries will inform young people about employment services organized and provided by labour offices. In every Labour Office will have at least one labour intermediary specialized for working with youth. After registration at the Labour Office the labour intermediary will begin individual work for activating the young person. He will also support other labour intermediaries in their work with unemployed youth.
- (3) Direction to organized job fairs, local cooperation associations, educational fairs and other informal organizations and / or events to support job search or enrolment in training. Major role in the work on this "path" will be played by labour intermediaries, youth NGOs, non-governmental organizations working in the field of Roma integration and nationally representative organizations of employers and employees.
- (4) Direction to private employment agencies and temporary employment enterprises as possibilities for realization on the labour market without the mediation of public employment services. Young people who do not wish to register in the Labour Offices of the Employment Agency will be informed of the opportunities offered by the private employment agencies or temporary employment enterprises regarding temporary employment. Again a significant role in guiding young people on this "path" will be played by labour intermediaries, NGOs (of youth and those working in the field of Roma integration) and nationally representative organizations of employers and employees.

Following the registration in the labour office, the first step shall be a joint preparation by the labour intermediary and the young person of an individual action plan containing a profile of the young person for revealing their skills, competences and wishes, as well as clarifying their future actions with deadlines and commitments. An important moment in the process of development of the individual plan is taking responsibility for actions on both parts – the labour intermediary and the young person. The individual profile shall be supplemented and updated, if necessary.

Next step in the process of activation of the young person shall be the provision of vocational guidance and job-search training by experts in the labour offices or in licensed centers for information and vocational guidance. Each young person of up to 25 years shall be included in vocational guidance and job-search training – individually, in groups, online, on the spot. The provided information shall be easily accessible and understandable so that it shall be of maximum benefit for the young person. The vocational guidance shall be both for the purpose of employment and for identification of training needs based on the individual profile developed for the young person, provision of opportunities, including opportunities for a “second chance” for education and guidance for inclusion in appropriate education. The inclusion in vocational guidance is important from the perspective of making an adequate choice regarding the capabilities of the young person as well as in relation with the labor market demands.

Particular emphasis in the work on the activation of young people will be put in the effort to contact and work with young people from vulnerable ethnic communities such as the Roma. Following the EU framework for national Roma strategies the National Strategy of the Republic of Bulgaria for Roma Integration (2012-2020) uses the name Roma as summary for Bulgarian citizens in vulnerable socio-economic status, who identified themselves as Roma and for citizens in a similar situation who the surrounding population defined as such, regardless of their self-determination. There is still a tendency part of the people who surrounding population named "Roma" or "Gypsy", to identify themselves as Bulgarians, Turks and Romanians.

The labour intermediaries – Roma mediators, working in labour offices, will continue to perform their specific functions in activation of inactive persons, and in their work they will be supported by psychologists and case managers. Informal contacts and discussions with young people from the Roma ethnic origin will be sought and pursued within their community without waiting young people to seek support and assistance. In an informal atmosphere and in simple language will be explained the possibilities that young people can use in order to obtain education/qualification and inclusion in employment. According to estimates of mediators, psychologists and case managers on the profile of young Roma will be offered all appropriate services and measures. In Roma communities will be worked individually with each youth, and will be organized informal group meetings, with the participation of representatives from the local teams initiated by labour offices. This process will actively involve representatives from NGOs working in the field of Roma integration. In the process of coordinating the implementation and monitoring of NIPEYG will participate representatives of such organizations and also representatives of the Secretariat of NCCEII which is National contact point for the implementation of the National Strategy for Roma integration of the Republic of Bulgaria 2012-2020. They are included in the complemented composition of the Coordination Council for the implementation and monitoring of NIPEYG.

The support of NGOs working in the field of Roma integration in dealing with inactive young Roma will aim to provide information on opportunities to return to the education system, and to the continuing education. They will provide support and mentoring to the young people to achieve motivation for educational and professional development.

Data on ethnicity is collected only on the principle of voluntary self-determination and in compliance with Constitution of the Republic of Bulgaria, Personal Data Protection Act, and Protection against Discrimination Act, which are synchronized with the European legislation.

2.4 Supportive measures for labour market integration

In Bulgaria there are legislative regulations and experience gained on the implementation of various measures and actions aimed at improving opportunities for employment and future labour market integration. These measures and actions will be applied better and in a wider scope in order for the Guarantee to achieve the effect wanted. For the target group of the programmes, schemes and measures applied, a reserved quota for young people up to the age of 25 years will be defined. For the implementation of the Youth Guarantee, as of the beginning of 2014 will be applied programmes and measures aimed at young people, which have proven their efficiency and which claim a strong interest on the part of employers and young people. At the same time, work will start on the development of new programmes and schemes for young people in close cooperation with social partners and all key institutions.

The measures and intervention actions will be various and defined depending on the young person's profile:

- Literacy training. Young people having low levels of basic skills in reading, writing, mathematics, etc. (illiterate persons) due to having left the system of formal education early, will be provided with the possibility to acquire knowledge equal to the level of primary education, with a view of acquiring literacy and access to vocational education or training. These young people will be provided with the possibility of going back to and integrating in the educational system or of involving in shortened educational programmes (literacy courses). Special emphasis labour market intermediaries - Roma mediators and case managers will put on this possibility in their work with young illiterate people.
- Training for the acquisition of qualification and/or key competences needed on the labour market. Every young person without any qualification or with identified needs for upgrading the qualification, or for re-qualification, will be provided an opportunity to get involved in vocational training for acquisition of knowledge and skills in occupations in demand on the labour market. With a view to complementing vocational knowledge and skills, an opportunity for key competence training will be provided as well. Training vouchers will be widely used thereby young people, with the help of labour intermediaries will be able to choose among training institutions.
- Support for finding a job in the primary labour market. Young people will receive information and will be referred to jobs that fit their profile. Young people will be able to attend short-term trainings for getting familiar with labour and social security rights and obligations they will have upon starting a job. Support for finding a job in the primary labour market will be given to each youth registered in labour offices. Labour intermediaries will work actively with local employers to provide sustainable jobs suitable for young people.
- Support for the creation of jobs for the employment of unemployed young people registered at the labour offices. The support will consist in providing employers with various financial subsidies. Payments may include the salary of an employed young person; social and health insurance contributions payable at the expense of the employer, commuting costs, etc. Promoting employers to employ unemployed young people is an important instrument for providing (first) employment for young people, for gaining first professional experience, for developing work habits and discipline. Subsidized employment is an effective instrument for the provision of jobs to young people for whom it would be hard to find a work in the primary labour market due to their lack of skills, or being long-term unemployed or inactive. The subsidies will be for a certain period of time and with obligations on the part of the employer (for example an additional employment period following the subsidized one) and the young person (for example an obligation to get involved in training before starting to work) with a view to ensuring that the funds are effectively spent.

- Provision of traineeships at a workplace to young educated and qualified people. Wide coverage will be ensured for traineeship programmes and measures aimed at providing traineeships to young people having finished higher education, upper secondary and/or courses for acquiring qualification. Traineeships will be offered in private business and public administration.

The amendments to the Labour Code in March 2014 regulates employment contract with a condition of traineeship. This contract may be concluded with youth under 29 who have completed secondary or higher education, but not having professional and work experience in the same profession or specialty. Regulation of the contract with a condition of traineeship expands the opportunities for employers to hire young people and helps ensure quality traineeships and protection of labour rights of trainees. The contract shall determine the manner and form by which to acquire practical skills in the process of work performance, the duration (between 6 and 12 months) and others. After termination of the contract with a condition for probation young person shall receive a recommendation stating the learning outcomes. Introduced changes meet the basic requirements of the Quality Framework for Traineeships as: reasonable duration, recognition of service, adequate social protection and payment.

- Provision of apprenticeship to young low educated and non-qualified people who do not wish to be involved in education or training courses. Employers, who hire young people as apprentices under the guidance of a coach, will obtain subsidies for the salary and the mandatory social contributions for the apprentice and for the additional salary for the coach. The duration of subsidized apprenticeship can last up to 12 months, and during this period the cost of labour of the employed apprentice and the mentor's fee are covered. In case the employer sustains the employment of the youth after the subsidized period, the mentor's fee is subsidized for a supplementary period but not more than 24 months. Thus the apprenticeships could have longer duration. Apprenticeship is an appropriate form of supported employment from which young people with low educational level and without qualification can benefit, and they will be expressly informed by labour intermediaries, incl. Roma mediators and case managers.
- Incentives for temporary employment of young people from regions with both high unemployment rates and poorly developed economic (public and private) infrastructure. Employers who hire young people temporarily for public work activities or in the private sector will use subsidies for their salaries and social security contributions, this being valid for a certain group of young people (having primary or lower educational level, without qualification), that have no other chance to be involved in employment. Combining temporary employment with the provision of incentives and training opportunities will be an instrument of sustainable integration of young people into the labour market.
- Support for the geographical mobility within the country when searching for and starting a job. Financial incentives will be provided, to encourage and support young people's geographical mobility aimed at working, that will cover the expenses for daily commuting to the workplace (when it is different from the place of residence), or for moving and settling in a new location due to starting a job.
- Provision of services from the European Employment Services network (EURES). Within the network will be provided information, consultations and appointment of young people who wish to start a job in another EU country, but also of employers wishing to recruit staff across borders. The exchange of applicants for jobs / traineeships and job offers will be organized via the EURES portal. It is planned to start using the EURES portal, as of 2014, also as a platform for actual appointment in EU, as well as for training and traineeship places. Young people will be also informed about the EC' initiative "Your first EURES job" and its web-site <http://ec.europa.eu/social/main.jsp?catId=993&langId=bg> in order to be informed and to seek job opportunities on it. The new opportunities of the "online" based European Skills/Competences and Occupations (ESCO) classification will be used as well. The Employment Agency will use ESCO for matching CVs of job seekers and vacancies all over Europe. The database of skills/competences of ESCO will allow matching the labour supply and demand on the basis of comparing the range of skills of young people and skills sought by employers.

Along with the providing of the information concerning the EURES' services and opportunities, youths will also be informed about other (web-based) resources as the European Youth Portal (<http://europa.eu/youth/en>), National Centre "European Youth Programmes and Initiatives" (<http://www.youthbg.info/>), Eurodesk (<http://www.eurodesk.bg/>) and others, including the special section on the Youth Guarantee, separated within the EA website. Information about web-based resources will be provided to the persons and will be shared between organizations / institutions involved in the implementation of NIPEYG for distribution to NGOs working with youths.

- Support for starting own business by young highly educated and qualified people who are motivated and have business ideas. With a view to opening their own business, young people will be supported by the provision of grant schemes, loans, and investment funds. Besides funding young people will be able to use a range of services that support the starting up of a business: provision of accessible and comprehensive information on certain schemes that will be applied to encourage entrepreneurship among young people; guidance and advice to clarify the business idea; applying simplified approaches and support to the drawing-up of a business plan and applying for funding; quick approval of the plan and supporting monitoring of its implementation; getting involved in training for the acquisition of knowledge and skills for management of SMEs; providing advice at the initial stage of the operation of a newly-established enterprise.
- Supporting measures for the inclusion of young graduates as teachers in secondary schools, including Roma.
- Development of adaptation programmes for teachers aged 35 years, according to the needs of different regions and municipalities.
- Development of a mechanism for engaging institutions, businesses and NGOs to provide additional funding and resourcing of measures to attract and retain young teaching staff in the education system.
- Special measures are provided to members of the Roma community (including the North-West region of the country). Will be provided more places for Roma teachers in secondary schools and places for Roma students from across the country, who will be given the opportunity to become secondary school teachers.
- Set in NIPEYG supporting measures will be implemented to the fullest extent if the introduced in Parliament Bills on amending the Law on Vocational Education and Training are accepted. Bills are discussed in an inter-institutional working group chaired by the Deputy Minister of Education and Science and a Report has been produced within the inter-institutional working group in relation to the forthcoming second reading.
- Currently a draft of new School Education Act is being developed, which will provide guarantees and legal mechanisms to increase the education degree as a key factor in reducing youth unemployment as well as number of dropouts and early school leavers. After the enactment of the new law, the accompanying regulations will be updated.

The measures and intervention actions specified will be implemented through the coordinated actions of the institutions and organizations responsible, some of them being labour offices, schools, vocational training centers, employer organizations, trade unions, youth organizations, NGO, local economic development organizations, information and career guidance centers, institutions involved in developing and implementing youth policy, local authorities, etc.

Every registered unemployed youth will be provided with information on available training measures, traineeships, apprenticeships and jobs suitable for him according to the individual profile. An important step - stage of the work with each youth up to 25 years towards provision of employment and/or training, will be the inclusion in job-search training. It focuses on the acquisition of knowledge and skills by young people in order to adapt to the working environment. It contributes to the development of communication skills, teamwork, self-organizing the working process, etc. Inclusion in groups for job-search training also develops skills for self-assessment of capabilities, for search and use of information as a resource and social skills for adaptive behaviour.

The phased implementation of the Youth Guarantee in 2014 implies an emphasis regarding funding from the state budget on the making of a quality job offer, and directing to appropriate training for young people with primary or lower education, whose share in the total number of registered unemployed youth is the most significant. At the same time, labour intermediaries as well as psychologists and case managers in labour offices will work actively with each young person regardless of their education/qualification by providing a full range of services according to their individual profile. Practically in 2014 phased implementation of the Youth Guarantee will be applied only in respect of priority spending from the state budget for active labour market policy.

3. Funding

The implementation of this plan shall be funded with resources from the state budget (within the resources for the sustenance of the EA and pursuant to NAEP for the respective year), from the European Social Fund, including through the Youth Employment Initiative, within the implementation of OP HRD, as well as with resources from employers.

- Funding from the public budget within the resources for the sustenance of the EA: the drawing-up of individual action plans for each newly-registered young person up to the age of 24 shall be done by labour intermediaries at the labour offices. In the budget for the sustenance of EA in 2014, resources amounting to BGN 1 125 000 BGN have been allocated to the drawing-up of an individual action plan for 75 000 newly-registered young people up to the age of 24, inclusive. With resources amounting to BGN 250 000 BGN from AE's sustenance in 2014, job-search training of 14 00 young people will also be funded.

The total amount of the resources from the state budget to be provided within the resources for the sustenance of EA between 2014 and 2020 for the drawing-up of individual action plans for each newly-registered young person and for job-search training will amount to BGN 10.9 mln.

- Funding from the state budget under NAEP: within the period of the implementation of the NIPEYG – 2014-2020, resources will be provided in the amount of BGN 388 972 695 within the budget for the implementation of active labour market policy (pursuant to NAEP for the respective year). The resources from the state budget will fund the employment, traineeship, apprenticeship and training of unemployed young people registered at labour offices, as well as the programmes and measures that are not especially aimed at young people, where they will be a priority target group for involvement. Up to 30 % of those involved in employment and education programmes and measures, will be young people up to the age of 29. The funding planned within NAEP in 2014 amounts to BGN 21 900 000 that will ensure the employment of 7 thousand young people up to the age of 29 and about 4 thousand young people will be involved in training.

In total, between 2014 and 2020, pursuant to the accounts made in the Updated Employment Strategy of the Republic of Bulgaria (2013-2020) concerning funding the active labour market policy, due to the amounts allocated amounting to BGN 388 972 695, it is expected that more than 150 thousand young people will be involved in employment and training.

- Funding from the ESF: the implementation of the present plan will be supported financially with resources from ESF – within the context of OP HRD and pursuant to the Youth Employment Initiative. The total amount of the resources for the period between 2014 and 2020 is about BGN 324 176 000 that will fund also schemes under the Youth Guarantee. The implementation of the first scheme for the implementation of the Youth Guarantee will start in 2014 and will include modules for activating inactive people (including those from the group of NEETs), provision of training and subsidizing employment, apprenticeship and traineeship. The resources allocated to the implementation of the scheme in 2014 amount to BGN 23 412 345, and more than 7 000 young people up to the age of 29 will be involved in employment and/or training. Moreover, in 2014 the implementation of three schemes under OP HRD 2007-2013 will continue, whereby the newly-involved young people will be 1 270 (under New Workplace Scheme), and the allocated amounts will amount to BGN 25 000 000.

For the period 2014 - 2020, the funds under the Youth Employment Initiative for Bulgaria amount to € 55 188 745 (BGN 106 261 946). ESF will provide € 63 467 057 (BGN 122 201 239), including national co-financing amounting to € 8 278 312 (BGN 15 939 292).

- As a result of the work of labour intermediaries with registered young people, about 10 % (nearly 7.5 thousand in 2014) of them will start working on the primary labour market. The resources from the employers that will fund this employment are the business' contribution to the implementation of the present plan. The planned national funding is from the budget for the sustenance of the EA and in 2014 it will amount to BGN 1 000 000. In total, the amount for the period between 2014 and 2020 is BGN 9 100 000

4. Evaluation and continuous improvement of schemes

At EU level, the European Commission (EC) will monitor the implementation of schemes for the Youth Guarantee through multilateral surveillance of the Employment Committee (EMCO) in the framework of the European Semester. In addition, in accordance with the recommendation of the Council of the EU the network of public employment services, with support from the European Commission, will continue to monitor and report on the implementation and results of the scheme for Youth Guarantee on which public services operate. Monitoring will include three elements: 1) update of the Study on the business model of the Public Employment Services (PES) by adding sheets of States for 2014 along with a specific youth module; 2) continuing the self-evaluation of PES capacity for implementation of Youth Guarantee with a focus on the core activities of the PES; 3) qualitative evaluation and impact assessment of the measures for young people performed by PES listed in a catalog of measures to implement the Youth Guarantee, as well as other measures implemented by the PES.

To ensure efficient use of resources, Member States should guarantee the evaluation and continuous improvement of the implemented measures defined in the context of the Youth Guarantee in order to achieve the goals.

Given the importance of the active labour market policy targeting young people and to ensure effective use of funds for it, methodology for monitoring and evaluation of programs and active measures on the labour market is applied in Bulgaria. The methodology provides a general basis, a unified approach to analysis and evaluation of the active policy to ensure uniformity and reliability of management conclusions and recommendations. It defines the general framework for conducting ongoing monitoring and evaluation of the implementation of an active policy. The two most widely used techniques for the evaluation of programs and measures for employment are ongoing monitoring of key indicators and assessment of the impact of the implementation with respect to finding a job after participating in programs and measures for employment and training.

Subject to monitoring and evaluation under the methodology are programs and measures financed from the state budget with funds for active policy and included in the National Action Plan for Employment - the main instrument of employment policy, which annually determines the projects, programs and measures to be implemented, the type of stimuli and their dimensions - both for employers and for the participants in subsidized employment. The full cycle of monitoring and evaluation of the programs include:

1. Ex-ante evaluation;
2. Ongoing monitoring of the implementation of programs and measures;
3. Annual analysis and evaluation of the implementation and impact of the implementation of programs and measures.

In order to take action to improve focus and increase the effectiveness of the implementation of various initiatives in the labour market, the so-called mid-term evaluation is held periodically. The main objective of this evaluation is to provide interim, additional information on which to base decision making for change, extension or termination of the implementation of certain measures and/or programs.

Planned evaluations (concerning non-financial aspects) of structural reforms

According to the Updated Employment Strategy of the Republic of Bulgaria 2013-2020, at least once every three years, a gross evaluation of the effect of the implementation of programmes and measures for employment and training funded from the state budget, will be implemented, and a net evaluation – at least once every 5 years.

One of the main tasks of the Coordination Council for the implementation and monitoring of NIPEYG is related to the monitoring the implementation of the Plan. In this regard, there are specific tasks defined in the Rules of Procedure of the Coordination Council for the implementation and monitoring of NIPEYG to ensure regular monitoring of implementation with a view of timely undertaking actions in case of failure or retardation as well as better targeting actions and initiatives. Among the specific monitoring activities of NIPEYG are:

- Examination of quarterly progress reports on implementation of the Plan containing information on the financial resources of the individual initiatives and performance;
- Planning the carrying out current and ex-post evaluations of the Plan and its individual measures;
- Requests information from institutions and organizations in connection with the performance of its activities;
- Makes suggestions and discuss the results of the activities to strengthen the capacity of stakeholders, as well as actions for mutual learning, build partnerships, exchange of experiences and good practices between them.
